2. How We Use the Information We Collect

We may use the information that we collect about you or from you (or that you provide to us) for the following reasons:

- To improve the Site and its content

- To improve the performance of the Site

- To protect the security of the Site

- To contact you as needed or requested

- To provide you with the information, products, or services that you request through the Site

- To notify you about updates to the Site or to the products or services we provide

- To accomplish the purpose for which you provide the information

- To fulfill any orders you make through the Site

- To enhance your customer service experience with us

- In any other way described to you when you provide the information

In any other way with your consent

Note that you always have the right to request additional information on how we collect and use your personal information, including what category or categories of data are being collected and why such data is/has been acquired.

3. How We Protect Your Information

We use reasonable efforts consistent with industry standards to protect your personal information by using appropriate security measures intended to safeguard the information in our files. However, because all information is stored electronically, we cannot 100% guarantee its security. We will notify you of any data security breach if we are required to do so by law.

4. How Long We Keep Your Personal Information

We will retain any personal information that you provide to us for 1 year. However, at any time you may (a) request that we delete your personal information from our files, and (b) unsubscribe from our email list. Any email you receive from us will include instructions on how to unsubscribe.

Note that any information you provide publicly on the Site, for example by leaving a public comment, is not protected by this Privacy Policy.

5. Third Party Sharing

Because we respect your privacy, we do not sell, trade, or lease your personally identifiable information to third parties without your explicit consent, except there are a handful of scenarios where third party information sharing may occur:

Analytics: We may use analytics services (such as Google Analytics) that collect certain analytics data that we use to enhance the Site and inform certain business practices, such as marketing and advertising. Google's privacy practices are set forth at <https://www.google.com/policies/privacy/partners>.

Email Marketing: We may use an email marketing service provider (such as Mailchimp or Squarespace) to contact you via email with information and promotional material that may be of interest to you. In such event, we have provided your name and email address to such provider. Any email you receive from us will include instructions on how to unsubscribe and discontinue receipt of such emails.

Payment Processors: For successful transactions on the Site, we may use third-party services to process payment for orders on the Site. For example, we may have to relay your credit card information and billing address to your card issuer to process and confirm payment of your purchase on the Site. In this event, your personal information is relayed directly to the payment processor and we do not store or collect this information.

Order Fulfillment: For successful transactions on the Site, we may use third-party services to fulfill your order of a product purchased from the Site. For example, we may have to relay your mailing address to a third party delivery service to ensure delivery of products you ordered.

Customer Service: We may use a third-party service provider to handle customer service issues for the Company. In such an event, the service provider may be given certain of your personally identifiable information in order to assist you with the customer service issue.

Legal or Judicial Requests: From time to time, we may be required by law to disclose your personally identifiable information to governmental authorities upon receipt of a court order or subpoena. In addition, we may release your personally identifiable information to third parties if needed to enforce any terms and conditions related to the use of the Site or to protect our users or the general public. We fully cooperate with law enforcement agencies in identifying those who use our services for illegal activities. We reserve the right to report to law enforcement agencies any activities that we in good faith believe to be unlawful.

6. Cookies

The Site uses “cookies” to optimize your use of the Site and delivery of the information, products, or services you request. A cookie is a small piece of data saved on a user’s computer to optimize the user’s experience on a website. It will help us know if you’re a repeat customer and what information, products, or services you prefer. We may also use these cookies to inform you of additional products or services that we offer based on those preferences. Cookie use in no way compromises your personally identifiable information (all information collected through cookies is non-personal) on the Site – they are primarily for statistics and user experience improvement.
